

DAILY PLANET

ALL THE NEWS THAT FITS

Friday, February 7

1997

Goldin, Littles Outline 'Good-News' '98 Budget

In a Thursday press briefing, NASA Administrator Daniel Goldin said the President's FY 1998 budget request for NASA is $13.5 billion. Approximately $2.34 billion of that amount is for Marshall. "The President," said Goldin, "put in place stable funding for the next five years. He saw that NASA had performed. This stable funding shows the commitment this Administration has to science and technology." Dr. Wayne Littles told employees, "It is a good-news budget for NASA, and very positive for Marshall."

Marshall Signs New Visitor Center Pact

Center Director Wayne Littles Thursday signed an agreement renewing the U.S. Space & Rocket Center's charter to operate as Marshall's official Visitor Center. Under the agreement the Alabama Space Science Exhibit Commission, which operates the SRC, will upgrade the museum and tour of Marshall.

'Hubble: Secrets
From Space' Airs
On Discovery
Channel Mon. at 8 and 11 p.m.

From left, Rocket Center Director Thad Mauldin, Dr. Littles, Commission Chairman Gary Griffin